Privacy Statement

We respect the privacy of the visitors of our website and we make sure that the personal information that you provide us through our website will be dealt with confidentially. Processing the personal information will be according to the requirements of the Dutch Personal Data Protection Act.

Clickstream data and user information

On our website, the main user information will be tracked. In this instance, your IP address, username, time of using the website and information which your browser automatically sends can be used for statistical analysis to profile the use of our website. We also use this information to improve the website.

We try to make this information as anonymous as possible. The information will not be handed to a third party.

Google Analytics

We use Google Analytics to keep track of how the users of our website use our website. The information obtained through this, including the address of your computer (IP address), will be transferred to and saved on the Google servers.

Google uses this information to keep track of how our website is used, to write reports to us on the usage of our website.

Facebook, Instagram and Twitter

There are buttons included in our website to promote our share pages on the social media platforms Facebook, Instagram and Twitter. These buttons are realised through a code provided by Facebook, Instagram and Twitter themselves. This code makes use of cookies (see below).

Please read the privacy statement of Facebook, Instagram and Twitter (which can change regularly) to see what they do with your personal information which will be obtained through this code.

Cricket News

We give the opportunity to provide information about the KNCB and its news for people who are interested in our Cricket News. When given permission by yourself, your e-mail address will be added to a list of subscribers. Every Cricket News will include a link where you can unsubscribe for Cricket News. The list of subscribers will not be handed to a third party.

Use of cookies

Our website makes use of cookies. A cookie is a small file send from our website to your computer and saved on your hard drive. By doing this, we can combine different aspects of our website and analyse the behaviour of our users to improve the website. You can choose to not allow all cookies, however, this will limit the functionality and usability of our website.

Changing privacy statement

We have the right to change this privacy statement. All changes will be published on this website.
